BEFORE WAR PRODUCTION-This is the way an assembly line in the Chrysler Plymouth plant in Detroit looked as it was being dismantled. The assembly lines are not needed now because the plant is going into war production. Acetylene torches are being used here to rip apart the assembly lines. Old machinery is in background.

AFTER WAR PRODUCTION—Even before auto production machinery in the Chrysler Plymouth plant has been removed, war production gets under way. Here workmen are building war machine parts while other workers still are removing auto production machinery. In this way, as little time as possible is lost.

In 8-Alarm Fire At Philadelphia One Feared Dead as Inferno Razes 20 Structures.

40 Are Injured

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.-An eight-alarm fire, one of the worst in Philadelphia history, raged tonight through a shaped block of stores and homes in the northwest section of the city.

One person was feared burned to death in the inferno that razed at least 20 structures and damsection of Ridge and Columbia

Two-score firemen and several spectators were treated for injuries received from falling debris, flying glass or falls on icy streets. Spectators Attracted.

The flames, fanned by a stiff wind, leaped hundreds of feet into the air. They attracted 40,000 to 50,000 spectators including many who motored from suburban points, tying up traffic for blocks The resulting confusion led Chief Air Raid Warden Guy E.

Parsons to declare "this would be some mess if it were a real bomb attack. For the rest of the war I would urge the people to stay from scenes like this in the interest of public safety."

The fire, preceded by an explosion, broke out shortly after 8 p. m. (E. S. T.) in the four-story Acme Furniture Company ware-house. Firemen, who estimated the property damage will exceel $1. 000,000, brought the conflagration under control before midnight, although sparks from collapsing walls had set fire to several houses across Ridge avenue.

This development coincides with Axis reports from Bern, Switzerland, that Marshal Petain, of France, would go to Spain on Monday, presumably to confer with his old pupil, Generalissimo

Another Friend

A middle course may be expected for the new administration in Chile. Juan Antonio Rios, who soon will take office as president, is a lawyer of liberal tendencies and was the candidate of groups which in that country correspond to the New Dealers in this land.

But his liberalism is concentrated more upon domestic policies and his attitude toward foreign nations could perhaps best be described as cautious. His friendship for the United States cannot be doubted, yet he feels very keenly that the long, virtually unprotected, coastline of Chile would make a sharp break in relations with Axis nations inadvisable. Events may occur which will change his viewpoint, but for the moment do not expect it to be anything but a narrow concentration upon national

For this last, Rios looks to the United States for capital. He views a lack of capital as the greatest handicap to the growth of a free Chileno economy and can see little other answer to the problem except in American help. This, of course, may profoundly affect the course of his foreign policy providing the United States can assure the Chilean government of pro-

Combat Deaths

Utilizing available authenticated figures, the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have estimated a minimum of combat deaths of 1,250,000 in the armed forces of belligerent nations last year.

This figure may actually exceed 1,600,000, it was revealed, but will not reach the fantastic estimates made for propaganda purposes by Germany and Russia. Most deaths are the result of action on the eastern front, with Nazi deaths placed at a minimum of 300,000 and a maximum of 600,000. Russian losses are placed at 750,000 or more. These losses are on a scale comparable to the first World War.

Losses of the United States in the less than a month in which the country was engaged in active hostilities were heavier than in all of the first year of this nation's participation in the last war, the statisticians said. Naval losses at Pearl Harbor alone-2,729-were three times as heavy as all naval losses from enemy actionless than 900-in all the last war

On the other hand, Japanese losses in the first World War-when that country was nominally an Allied nation-were only 300 men. We shall exact a fearsome toll-in fact have already exacted a fearsome toll-for the stab at Pearl

Slogans

There is a man in New York whose profession or art or business-whatever you call itis the coining of slogans. His name is J. Henry Smythe Jr., better known as "Slogan Smythe." It is said of him that he created more than 1,000 slogans during the first World War. He is a professional promoter of patriotism.

No one can deny that an apt and telling slogan is useful in the advocacy of any cause. Since December 7 there have been innumerable slogans put out anent this new war. Yet, of them all, there is only one which has caught on, universally. That is "Remember Pearl Harbor." And, even for that, it may be asked if any American needs reminding to remember that example of Japanese treachery. "Slogan" Smythe has already created some 400 or 500 slogans for this war. Too many, in fact. For out of so many only a few can be really effective, their very number weakens the

Some of them include "Prove You Care-Do Your Share"; "Let's Can Japan"; "Back Our Yanks in Their Tanks"; "We're in It-Let's Win It!" And so on.

Slogans help. But it will take much more than slogans to win this war. Perhaps the best of all would be "Let's Go to Work!".

The Strength of America

In the space of a few short weeks the ragtaggle lawns of winter will, in the quiet way of nature, turn to the generous green of spring. The latent life of the azalea buds will burst into their paean of thanksgiving for the warming rays of the sun. The dogwood will pay its tribute of beauty to the earth. And from the limbs of the great oaks will fall the rufous leaves that through the winter have kept their vigil, awaiting the new green to carry on their sacrificed lives. The earth will lie warm and rich with the bearing of its myriad children.

This is our rich land. This is America. From its wealth and from its beauty we have drawn our strength, From it comes our nature. From it, many must go and, like the withered leaves of the oak, sacrifice themselves, knowing that they have kept the faith with the strong and proud leaves to come in Nature's new cycle.

Many have quietly wondered in years past whether the fibre had gone from the being of America, Wondered whether Americans were becoming rich and, becoming rich, slothful.

The answer, as sure as the spring which soon will be upon us, is written for all to see. It is written not alone in the chronicled deeds of heroes, of Colin Kelly and Buzz Wagner or of Russ Church and Sandy Nininger. And not alone by the Marines of Wake and Guam and

The answer is written in a thousand camps across the breadth of the land, and in the skies above the land and on the Seven Seas by men who go to face their destiny uncomplaining.

The answer is written in millions of homes nestling to the good earth where mothers and fathers live and have their being and await the destiny of their sons. It is written in the quiet pride of those who have heard and, having heard, answer only that they are proud, hiding the raw wound of their loss and serving as only they can serve.

The answer is written in the thousand factories of the land, in the lifted shoulders of the old men back at the machines they know and love so well; in the quickened hands of the men who fought another war on the front lines and now march in their new army for those who must again go forth; in the deft fingers of the younger men who serve in the niche their destiny assigns; in the calloused hands of the young women who must shunt aside their hopes and their fruition against the day when the flags are furled.

The answer is written in the faces of the millions who ask only, "What can I do?"

The final answer will be written on a thousand foreign fields and over foreign skies and in alien waters. It was written when the first bomb screamed down at Pearl Harbor. It was written for America that Sunday morning by a grim padre who dropped his church bunting and pumped lead from the deck of a battleship, shouting his own proud battle cry:

"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition." He knew that neither the Lord nor the youngsters who man the fleet would let him

No Hot Water

The Finns, who didn't know when to quit, now are confronted with a "diktat" which brings home to the people the filth of war. For the people of Helsinki can use fuel to heat water only one day a month-on the 13th day.

Consider for a moment the implications back of this announcement, carried on the news wires recently. It means that cooking utensils cannot be thoroughly cleaned. That shaving is a torture. That bathing is practically non-existantthat the beloved Finnish steam baths are out. That plates cannot be completely clean. That clothes cannot be washed in warm water. There can be no hot water bottles for the ill.

There will be an aftermath-typhus and dysentary-and kindred ills that follow uncleanliness. The price of war is to be visited upon an ill-advised people.

Georgia Editors Say: SCOUT MOVEMENT PAYING DIVIDENDS (From The Americus Times-Recorder)

The money, time and effort which this community has invested in the Boy Scout movement in the last several years is paying off big dividends right now. Patriotism is one of the many ideals and objectives of Scouting.

Our Boy Scouts are playing an important and valuable role in our present emergency. They have been distributing posters for the defense bond campaign, collecting old aluminum and waste paper, helping in the air raid blackout tests, and only today, they are busy lending a hand in the civilian defense registration. The Scouts are organized and trained for just such emergencies? Many of the older boys of our community who were good Boy Scouts in their younger days, are now with our armed forces, doing their job and

Yes, the Boy Scout movement is worth every cent of money, every minute of time and every ounce of energy we put into it, and then some.

THE USE OF MANPOWER WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.-It is evident already that the present war is to see a greater regimentation of the nation's manpower than any time in our history.

the best means of utilizing the nation's manpower may be the next war agency set up by the administration. The proposal is to have a small but potent unit given full authority to decide broad questions of policy in dealing with manpower prob-lems of the selective service, war production, civil service and civilian defense. It would constitute a sort of manpower priori-

Some such agency will probably have to function in settling the conflicting claims of the various groups charged with different phases of the war effort. Paul V. McNutt, present Social Security Administrator, is a good bet for head of the agency if it is

SELECTIVE SERVICE The selective service system, through use of its power of deferment, now has the authority to regiment the lives of all males between the ages of 21 and 35. Its authority will be extended over others on February 16, when all men between 20 and 45 not previously listed will register.

The latter class of some 9,000,000 will be subject to military service, although there undoubtedly will be a large number of deferments among the older men of this group. However, selective service can pretty well force these men into any field of work they are deemed necessary.

Later in March a lottery will be held to give each of the new registrants numbers by which they will be integrated with those who have not been called from the 19,000,000 previously registered under the draft. Details of the integration process have not been

FROM 18 TO 65 After this the decks will be cleared for the job of classifying those between the ages of 45 and 65, along with youngsters of 18 and 19, who will be called on to register sometime in April, probably over a 60-day period, so as not to disrupt business and industry.

Younger men in these groups, of course, will be subject to military duty as they reach 20, but there is no present provision for regimenting the older classes beyond "classifying" them. It is because existing provisions of selective service do not go beyond the classification stage for the older men that officials are giving consideration to legislation which would allow control over the work and activities of those too old to fight or unfit for active ASSIGN TO WAR JOBS The legislation would include authority for taking men from nonessential jobs and assigning them to war industry tasks. It might also include some provision for finding out what men holding essential jobs still have time for civilian defense work, plus the power to order them to such tasks in their spare time.

Officials are said to feel that if it is deemed necessary to extend control this far a program will likely be adopted also for ass lating into industry or other useful work related to the war effort some 10,000,000 women who would be available for valuable tasks. one of this is to say that official thought on the subject has entirely crystallized yet. It does indicate a strong trend of thought, however, that sooner or later may take legislative form.

Reuther Plan DETROIT. Feb. 8.—The Just a Fake Reuther for the reorganization of the motor industry during the preparatory period of the war program was a political fake so fraudulent on its face that, in rejecting it, the managers merely shrugged it off and neglected to go into the character of its author. The Reuther plan would have given the United Auto Workers of the CIO authority in management equal to that of the legal owners of the property, both collaborating with a third authority, representing the government.

There was not the remotest pos-ibility that the Roosevelt administration would select as the government's "neutral" representatives men who were not positively known to be reliable partisans of the union and enemies of private ownership and management. For this, be it remembered, is the same government which ap-pointed Frank Murphy attorney general and sent him on up to the supreme court after he, as gov-ernor of Michigan during "the trouble," had looked his sworr and sacred duty in the eye, wavered and dropped his gaze in a historic surrender of principle to lawless force. His conduct ther ubordinated the rule of the people to the will of an organized nob and seriously impaired pop ular confidence in popular government under law.

Under the To Dig Reuther plan. Own Graves with the government on the union's side; the owners, outnumbered 2 to 1 on issues of the management and even the disposal of private property committed to their care, would have been asked to serve in a role similar to that of condemned Polish hostages compelled to dig their own graves. Aside from the fallacies of the plan, quickly apparent to the naked eye, there were strong patriotic and moral reasons for its instant rejection. Reuther is an adventurous unioneer, politician and revolutionary field leader who, with his two brothers, Roy and Victor, acquired power through one of the most violent and brutal insurreqtions; short of civil war, that ever threatened constitutional govern ment in this country. That actual civil war did not develop during the terror which his union imposed on the motor centers of Michigan is a shameless boast of Justice Murphy who so far en-couraged the rioters in their out-lawry that he finally had to between decency bloodshed and peace by surren-

which Reuther rose to power was an antilabor movement disguised as a workers' protest. The motor companies suffered much. Bu the most painful brutalities and the most hurtful permanent loss were suffered by the majority of the workers, who sensed the character of the union and its leaders and struggled against odds to remain free men after Murphy had abandoned them. The union refused to let them vote for their collective bargaining agents and dragged many of them forcibly to union offices where they were compelled to pay sign up or be beaten up. Hundreds of men and women were pummeled by the mobs, one man as dumped into a vat of glue, we can do were looted and unspeakably befouled, windshields and window of the parked cars of nonjoiner were smashed while the owners toiled for their families, tires were cut, one woman was mauled by six shricking furies and her coat was slashed and her galoshes filled with tacks, and a brick through the window of one man's home at night narrowly missed his sleeping baby. SALARY GRAB 1873-AND NOW! This recent pension grab by congress, wherein they voted to dip into a fund established since 1920 and make it possible for a man to get better than $4,000 for life by the payment of $200, has stirred some recollections

The public has become angry and it remains to be seen if suave explanations and smooth words will make them forget. They believed that while they were urging the people to buy defense bonds they would slide through a pen-

(This inspired the Atchison Globe (Kansas) to run a streamer, or ribbon, eight column across the top of its front page as follows-When little children are saving pennies to buy defense stamps, congress votes itself a pension Folks, it smells.) And it does smell. Also recalled another act by congress which had a similar smell.

A gentleman of some 92 years, a distinguishresident of south Georgia, wrote that this act by congress reminded him of the "salary

That period in our history was an unusually corrupt one in which the worst elements of the post-war period were in control. It was this "salary grab" by congress which provided the straw which broke the camel's back and brought about reform. And, of course, the defeat of most of those responsible for the salary grab

The "salary grab" of 1873 is remembered only by students of history and by those of that period still alive today. Congress, on March 3, 1873, voted to increase certain federal laries. Most of the increases were legitimate. Congressional salaries were increased from $5,000 per year to $7,500. But congress made the law retroactive beginning with the term congress then sitting.

It was this feature of the act which caused it to be termed a "grab" and which led to the repeal of the law by the next congress and the defeat of many of those voting for such a steal.

PENSION GRAB-1942 One of the features of the pension has outraged the sensibilities of a patient people, is that one which allows them to dig into money paid in by civil service employes since 1920. Those employes began, in 1920, paying 11/2 per cent of their salaries into a retirement fund. Congress recently voted to increase that payment to 3 per cent and to allow their own immediately eligible benefits to be paid out of the fund in existence The civil service employes are paid out of taxation. Your postman and postal clerks, for instance, have been paying since 1920 and have accumulated a large reserve.

It was this the congressmen eyed. Having eyed it they voted themselves immediately eligible for retirement pensions even though they had not paid a nickel into The only apparent reason they increased the civil service pay-

They recently voted a $5 annual raise to civil service employes. They now have doubled his payments to the fund to help take care the congressional pension grab. The raise has shrunk.

grab of 1873. In 1873 they made their pay retroactive to the first of December from the passage of the bill in March. The present congress is not nearly so modest. It made it legal to dip into funds paid in by clerks and postal rkers since the year 1920. The grab of 1873 started reform on its way after a generation

It might be the grab of 1942 will have the same effect.

THE LADY DANCER It was a bit amusing to see how eager congress was to denounce the hire of . lady dancer to assist in the program of recreation for children.

While this does not unduly excite me, I do think it a bit farfetched and agree it was proper to denounce it. I am sure the bady is correct when she says she gave up a better job at more money because she was urged to do so on the basis of service. Lady dancers, good ones, can command as much as the head of a fairly large corporation. Indeed, the good ones make considerably more than a congressman which may have added to the heat of congress. Congress always tries to be entertaining and the idea of a dancer being paid handsomely for it apparently was irritating. Congress surely was not thinking about economy Nevertheless, the idea was unsound and the lady should be thanked and allowed to return to her more remunerative dancing. Congress, and the public, did not like the idea of her being paid a little more than $4,000 to teach children dancing in nationwide recreational programs. She can go back to entertaining and teaching privately and continue to make her $20,000 or more It was amusing because congress leaped so angrily to attack her. The congressmen had voted to pay themselves, if they served long enough, as much as the dancer was going to get for a year or so, for the period of their lives. The public was angry about that and so congress got much hotter than it ordinarily would have got. It is to be hoped the public will not let any smooth or soothing words explain away this pension grab. They will seek to distract public attention. But I do not believe the lady dancer is enough. The public hardly will forget this pension grab, dipping into money

We are not permitted to know the high strategy of our great leaders, but it is generally assumed that Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin agreed to concentrate on Hitler as the greater menace, their theory being that Japan will be easy to polish off once the Germans are out of the war

This conclusion is undoubtedly sound. America, Britain and Russia could easily defeat Japan—and there is no reason to fear Russia's withdrawal, for the Reds have an ancient quarrel to settle with the Japs. But this strategy must be based on the assumption that Germany can be knocked out in a short time-or at least before the os have conquered Asia.

If the premise proves sound, the reasoning is faultless. But it is a gamble—a race against time—and if the premise isn't right, it may prove to be the most tragic and most disastrous gamble

To laymen it seems an inexcusable risk, for there is no reason to believe that Germany can be crushed any time within the next few years. And meanwhile the Japs, if opposed only by small forces fighting "delaying actions," will certainly conquer all American, Dutch and British possessions now under attack, and not only close the Burma road to China, but open a way for the conquest of India. Unable to get supplies, the Chinese will be forced to quit. With all the wealth of the East to loot, the Japs will have

Why not fight the "delaying action" in Europe? England and Russia can hold Hitler as well as they did before. If America can

If all of us throw all we have against the Japs, with all possible speed, we can lick them in a year. Then Hitler would stand alone against the greatest powers in the world. OFF THE RECORD-By Ed Reed

Crackers Lick Atlanta Aces At Arena, 46-38

Whack Hyder's Superb Play and Garrison's 19 Points Win for Police.

By BERT PRATHER.

The title of Atlanta's top-ranking basketball team still belongs to Chief Neal Ellis' Police Crackers, that is, until a more experienced ball club than Chick Harris' Atlanta Aces shows up on the horizon. Led by the expert crip-shooting of lanky Lester Garrison and the great all-around floor game of the aggressive Whack Hyder, the Crackers submerged the Aces, 46 to 38, Sunday afternoon at Warren Sports Arena in a game that proed to be exceedingly interesting from whistle to whistle.

But the Aces aren't convinced yet of Cracker superiority. They have issued a ringing challenge for a return game Friday night and indications pointed last night to an acceptance by the Police crew. Harris and his players had contended that the Crackers were as suming a bit too much in claiming supremacy among local cage con-tingents and for a greater part of the game it seemed that the Aces had some grounds for their doubts. Snatching the lead after five min utes of play the Harrismen hung doggedly onto the advantage until early in the second half when the leadership changed hands many times before Hyder and Garrison ganged up on the tiring foe to put the Police boys out in front with three minutes to go. The Aces were on top at the halftime, 20 to Garrison, with 19 points, topped the scorers of both clubs. B. Rain-ey led the losers with 13 points, ost of which were one-handed beauties from near the sidelines Hyder was the whole show on the defense for the winners. Time and again he broke up enemy passes and was constantly taking the rebounds. It is certain that the Crackers could not have captured the ball game without his superb performance. Billy Cartwright, who had played with Central Cafe an hour earlier, Gene Warlick and Tarzan Bloodworth stood out de fensively for the Aces. Cartwright, with a bit of help from Towery, held the brilliant Fred Bradford to a lone field goal from the floor. The Crackers next major foe will be the famous Kautskys, of Indianapolis, Ind., scheduled for the Arena on February 20. In the preliminaries, Big Town Billiards tripped Erikson Manufacturing Company, 39 to 35, and Central Cafe, led by Billy Cartwright, whipped National Battery, 37 to 20. THE LINEUPS.

LANNING SIGNS

PITTSBURGH Feb. 8.—(P)—by taking the trek to Baltimore in the spring for competition in this right-handed hurler, has signed his contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, club officials disclosed to-

A Good Sign Majority of horses which "burn up" the winter circuit fall far short in Kentucky Derby expectations.

Hence, followers of Alsab, clutching at two extra pounds in weight, the fact that his jockey probably wasn't up to form, and a straw, are not dismayed at the licking the horse took in beginning a three-year-old career at Miami's Hia-

As everyone knows by now, Alsab finished sixth -a comfortable sixth. But Mr. Al Sabath's topwinning juvenile of 1941 carried 128 pounds and a jockey (Conn McCreary) suffering with what almost amounted to a broken leg. (Three-year-olds seldom are asked to carry more than 126 pounds. That's the official Kentucky Derby impost.)

A lot of things could have happened to Alsab, as followers will point out. Horses are a lot like humans. They can-and do-have off days. It was the first loss in 11 starts. Alsab was due to lose.

Anyway, he has done very well for his owner, who paid out only $700 at the yearling sales. That wouldn't pay for a year of Alsab's hay, but in return the fast-stepping horse won $100,600 in a year of racing.

It's too early to consider the record of Whirlaway, last year's Derby winner, as a three-year-old. But as a two-year-old this same Whirlaway, third largest money winner in racing history, couldn't carry Alsab's saddle blanket.

Whirlaway earned $77,275 in the first year of racing. That topped all juveniles of 1940.

But Alsab will have to engage in a few more races as three-year-old before any comparison can be made. Whirlaway, it may be recalled, was not sensational leading up to the Kentucky Derby.

Derby Week Form As a matter of fact, Whirlaway engaged in four races in Florida, won two and finished third in two others. In two races at Keeneland, in Kentucky, he won one and was second in another. Then Whirlaway finished second in the Derby trial.

They had been calling Whirlaway the Great Outcurve. He showed plenty of closing foot, but had a habit of bearing wide on the turns and losing valuable ground. There was much speculation if this deviation from the straight and narrow would ruin the horse's chances in the blue ribbon classic of the Blue Grass.

Whirlaway buried speculators and critics in a cloud of dust on Derby day. Twenty Grand's record went up in smoke as the Big Incurve negotiated the mile and a quarter in 2:01 2-5. Staretor, second hoss, was eight lengths in arrears at the finish.

All this was quite a contrast to earlier races as a threeyear old, but there was no stopping Whirlaway now. It was gangway for Whirlaway in the next eight races-including Preakness and Belmont for the celebrated "triple

Oh, yes, Alsab has a lot to prove. But in losing one the horse hasn't proved he won't return to form. It really doesn't mean a thing-except to followers that it may be a good omen.

For it is the form shown in Derby week that pays off at the mutuel windows.

In Short Reason for the Atlanta Crackers offering fans double-headers on July Fourth and fifth is the fact that Independence Day falls on Saturday this year. A fine break for old John Fan.

On account of a desire of Presidents Harridge and Frick to work in as many night dates as possible, both American and National League schedules are delayed. Both should be ready for publication just before the first of March.

In peddling Catcher Buddy Lewis to Knoxville, Chattanooga now has disposed of every veteran except 26-yearold Sparky Olsen, who manages the Lookouts. It is rumored that Baby Snooks will be signed as mascot of Joe Engel's ed that Baby Shows ... 1942 Southern League entry.

Georgia Tech's Ralph Plaster has shown possibilities of becoming one of the finest plunging fullbacks in the Southeastern Conference. Last year he rammed the robust lines of Duke, Notre Dame, Alabama, et al., for appreciable gains.

This win gave the Piedmonters a clean sweep of the two-game series played with the Hiwasseeites at Demorest and kept the Green and Gold season record clean for home games, with 10 games won on the home court and none lost.

Hiwassee, led by Tall Boy Sprinkle, jumped to an early lead of three points over Piedmont, but the margin quickly vanished as the Lions battered the Hiwassee defense to retake the lead to hold it for the rest of the game. The visitors closed up on the Piedmonters in the last two minutes of the game, bringing the score to within one point of a tie.

and ale is aging. "Green" beer is not palatable and it is not healthful. So a brewery must have space—and patience. It cannot speed up its product and turn it out overnight. Nature must take its course.

As every beer lover knows, there are two types. Bottled and "draft" Technical differences are not important. Some prefer one—the bottled beer and ale are most practical for a home—while some insist on "draft" flowing from the spigot at their favorite restaurant or tap room. It's a matter of taste. And when it comes to good taste in both bottled and draft beer and ale, Atlantic has that. Has it in every degree that can be achieved by skillful brewing of the highest quality ingredients with every angient and model.

U. S. Italians Loyal And Will Remain So, Count Says

The 900,000 Italians in the United States are loyal to this country, and will remain loyal, because they know that only through victory for the United Nations can Italy ever hope to become more than a German colony.

This was the opinion expressed here last night by Count Carlo Police Bullets Sforza, member of one of Italy's oldest noble families, a veteran anti-Fascist, and the man who, as head of the Free Italian movement, may become the next head Station House of Italy when the United Nations win the war.

with thinning gray hair and steady gray eyes, who speaks casually and with friendly directness about arguments with Il Duce, was interviewed at the Thomas English, of Emory Uni

Commenting on the present situation in Italy, the count said: "Italian dictatorship at the present is different from that in Gerent is different from that in Germany in that it is not inrooted into the traditions of the people. Only a middle age group of the population really supports Mussolini. The young generation now coming into maturity is disgusted with the distance idea and the with the dictator idea, and the able to believe that a lone gunman older generation was never won would attempt to take over a poolder generation was never won to it," he added.

He is in this country, however, not chiefly to lecture, but to keep alive the organization of the Italians who believe in freedom.

Count Sforza has the backing of the Americans and British in his fight. Just before leaving London active duty last year.

The count escaped across to France before Italy declared war against that country, staying there a short time before going to London with his family. When they arrived in port, Sforza was suspected of being an enemy and was placed in prison for several days while officials checked his story that he was a personal friend of both Prime Minister Churchill and King George.

While at Emory, Count Sforza will reside with Dr. English at 1098 Dan Johnson road.

"THE LEGEND OF GEORGIA"

by JOHN M. SITTON

One of Rich's Diamond Jubilee Murals, commemorating the founding of our State. On Display on Rich's Street Floor.

GEORGIA DAY... The Birth of Our Ideals

"The dews of heaven fall thick in blessings on her."

So is Georgia blessed... by the courage of a man whose sense of justice inspired him to renounce the pleasures of the English Court... to brave the perils of an unknown frontier... to found a Colony begat of high principles — tempered with a heart that was human.

On February 12, 1733, James Edward Oglethorpe reached Yamacraw Bluff. Here, as depicted in Rich's Commemorative Mural, he met Tomochichi and won his friendship. Here he brought his band of 114 Englishmen . . . to found the 13th Colony, a Sovereign State whose existence stemmed from the three great principles which embellish our State Seal.

Justice . . . for the Individual, and for the Colony in all its dealings with others.

Wisdom... that men might determine their own destinies and rule their own souls.

Moderation . . . a rare combination of moral and common sense to combat fanaticism.

Today we give new emphasis to the Freedom of our Founding — new importance to our rights in their gravest challenge. For in the future which we seek to secure, we are united once again with our mighty nation . . . looking forward to a world-wide Liberty based upon these principles which have been ours since inception . . . must be ours unto death.

Farmers Turn Out MY DAY: For Defense Meeting

ARTHURDALE, W. Va., Friday—While I was in Chicago between trains yesterday morning, I spent an hour breakfasting with our civilian defense regional director, Major Raymond J. Kelly, and members of the local defense council, headed by Mayor Kelly. They are very individual in Chicago and have set up a block system, whereby an organizer is appointed who calls a meeting of the block.

Those present elect the air raid warden, and he or she appoints his assistants. This seems a very democratic form of procedure and, for the protective services, should work out very well. Just how the volunteer community services are to work in this scheme is still a little hazy in my mind.

I was assured, however, that their district offices would be responsible for the channelling of volunteers to appropriate community services. They begged me to wait until they were functioning a little better, before making any criticism of the present setup, which they feel sure is going to prove satisfactory. I certainly hope they are right, because they are quite evidently doing a good organization job of the protective and medical services.

Two hours on the train brought us to Champaign, Ill., at 11:30 o'clock. I went to a press conference, a luncheon at the University Women's Club, followed by a question period on the work of women in defense, and then a meeting in the big gymnasium of several thousand people attending the forty-first conference of Farm and Home Week. This Farm and Home Week at the University of Illinois, reminded me very much of the annual Farm and Home Week with which I am familiar at Cornell University in New York

The fact that they had had comparatively little snow must have made the attendance of farmers and their families a little easier, but on the other hand, tire rationing must have kept many people away. I was glad we had a 20-minute question period after my talk, for it showed a great interest on the part of rural people in their responsibility for the conduct of the war. Their chief trouble, of course, is the fear of a labor shortage in farm areas.

Before leaving, I spent an hour with the local defense council representing four adjacent counties as well as the cities of Cham-Laign and Urbana. They have a civilian defense volunteer office which is functioning very well. There is evidently a great deal of interest on the part of all the representatives on the defense council, Mrs. Helm joined us in Champaign and we had a pleasant dinner on the train. We changed trains in Chicago, and are now nearing Connellsville, W. Va., from where we drive to Arthurdale.

Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Meet of the Atlanta Woman's Club business-program meeting today at 3 Will Honor Life Presidents

 MRS. MURRAY HUBBARD and Mrs. Guy Woolford, organizers of the ever-active Rabun Gap-Nacoochee groups, will be guests of honor this afternoon when the three branches of the organization meet at the Piedmont Driving Club. These prominent Atlantans, you know, are honorary life presidents of the senior Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild, and they will share honors today with members of the board of trustees.

Several distinguished speakers will take part on the program, scheduled-for 4 o'clock. They include Dr. Vernon Broyles, who will give the invocation; George Winship, secretary of the board of trustees, who will introduce members of his group; Dr. J. R. McCain, of Agnes Scott College, who will speak on the educational value of give the invocation; George Win-ship, secretary of the board of trustees, who will introduce members of his group; Dr. J. R. McCain, of Agnes Scott College, who will speak on the educational value of the school; and Dr. George Bellingrath, who will outline the plans made by the school to aid the Victory Campaign. George Woodruff, chairman of the board of trus-tees, will be missed from the meeting. Mr. Woodruff is in Florida, and will be unable to return in time to take part on the program.

It was Mrs. Hubbard who first realized the good that At-lanta women could do as sponsors of the school. Accordingly, she organized the senior guild 1931, with Mrs. Francis Abreu as the initial president. Mrs. Jeff Hutchins then took the gavel, after which Mrs. Woolford served as president from 1935 to 1941.

During her regime Mrs. Hubbard organized the Junior Guild, which has expanded to include a huge membership. Because the existing groups could not accommodate their ever-in-creasing membership, Mrs. William Ogden, inspired by Mrs. Woolford, assembled her friends Woolford's home and organized the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Club, which now has 215 members, under the capa-ble leadership of Mrs. Charles Meriwether.
